

Breakaway Group

Delightful Dutch Bulbfields and Amsterdam

Monday 14th – Friday 18th April 2025

We start as we mean to go on – a quick drink on the ferry!!

A delicious Breakfast together at Wicc

Approaching Keukenhof Park

Fields of colour await us

Co-ordinated as usual – we're ready to tiptoe through the tulips!!

Fountain of Youth??????

Iconic Dutch Windmill

Flower Barge

Hurdy Gurdy playing The Macarena!

Very tranquil scene

Modern Sculpture is found throughout Keukenhof

Do my feet look big in these?

Make a wish!!

Inside the Flower Hall

A beauty framed!!

Show me the way to amaryllis

Yes, Love is all you need !!

Rosemary and Catherine hit the town

They start by gatecrashing a Birthday Party in a Nail Bar

Then they discover JoJo's – God Help Us!!

It's always on the schedule!

It looks like the one in the middle has reached Target!!

At the Cheese and Clog Farm

The clogs start as a solid piece of wood

We see how the wood is crafted into a clog

There are many different flavourings that can be added to the cheese – we sample a fair few!!

A tantalising array, unfortunately the UK had banned dairy imports from Europe that weekend, so we couldn't take any home!!

What a pair of clogs!!

The Hague

We were lucky to see the Horses and Carriage from the Royal Stables out on a practice run.

Quite a trek to visit to the Escher Museum housed in the winter palace of Queen Emma, ancestor of King Willem-Alexander.

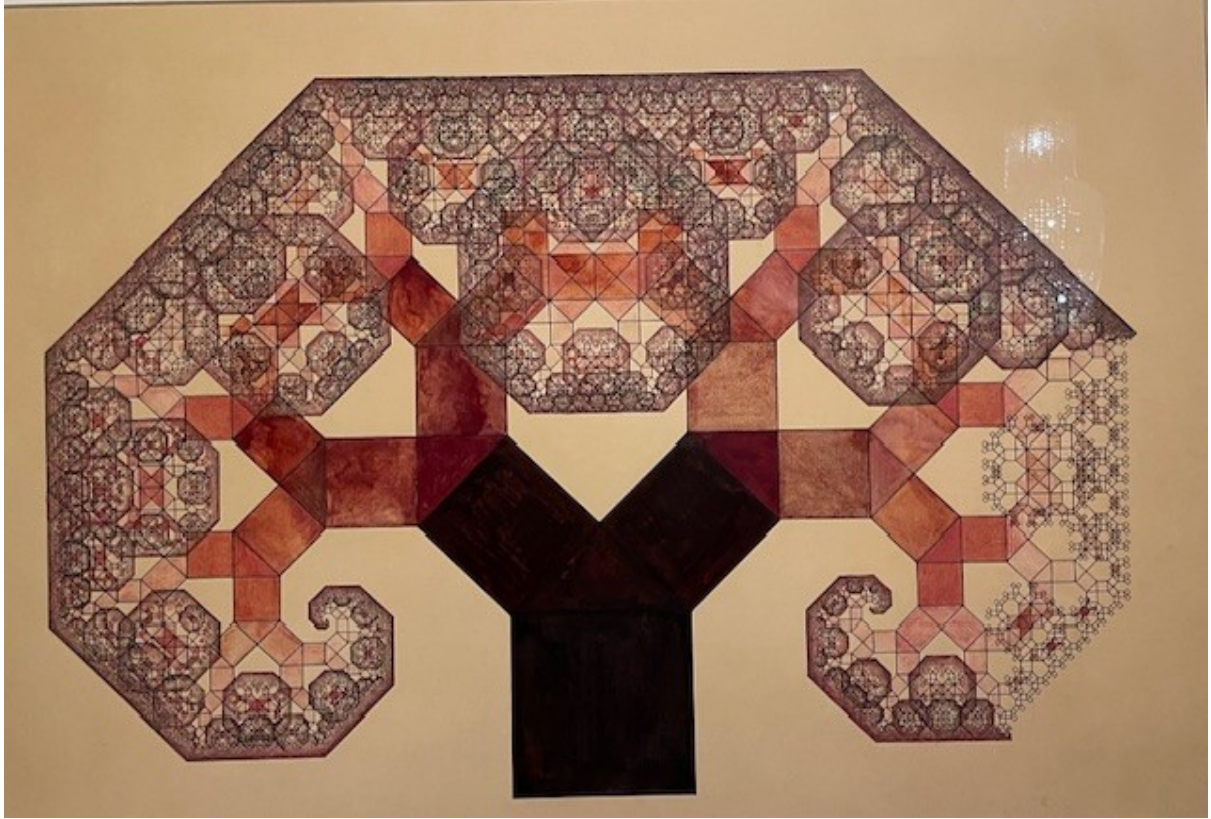

Escher is known for his optical illusions and metamorphosis

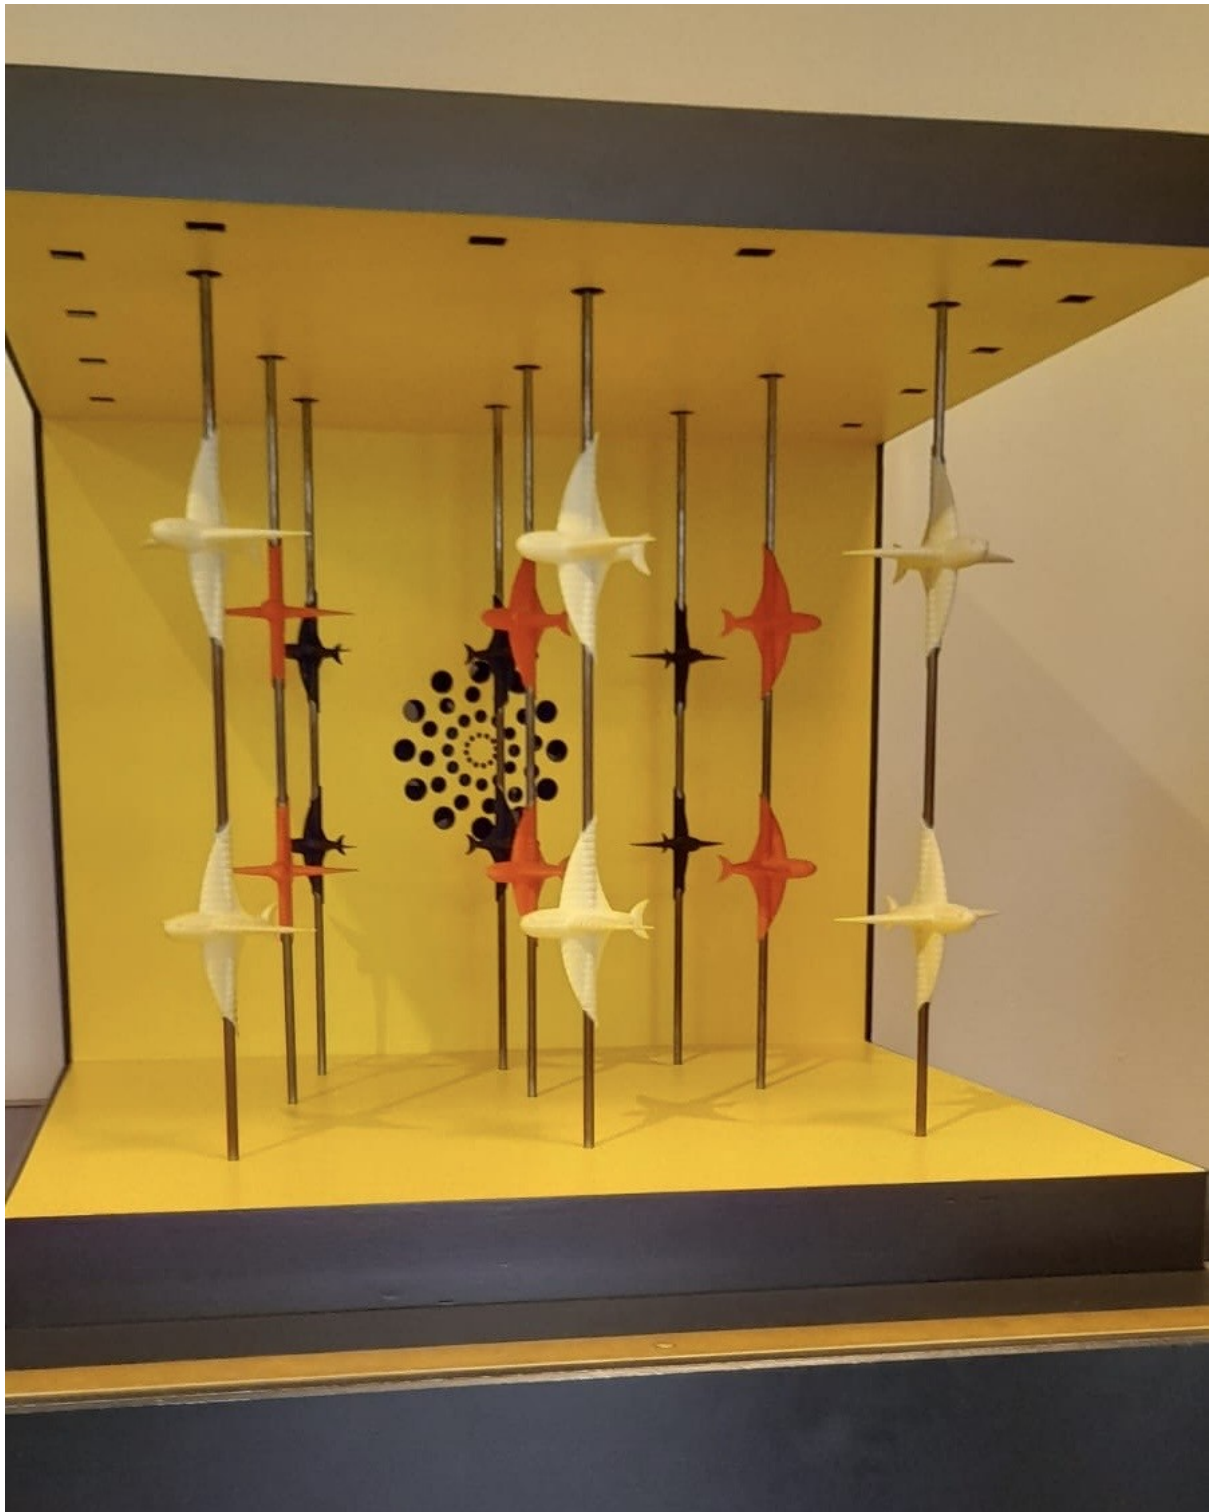

ROYAL
DELFT 1653
KONINKLIJKE PORCELEYNE FLES

Proud Mary

Named after Mary Stuart 11, wife of Stadholder William 11. Mary was a great collector of Delft Blue in the Golden Age. Proud Mary was designed to give Delft Blue a contemporary look.

Artist at work in the Delft Blue Factory

1695 DE PORCELEYNSE PLES 1965
AANGEBODEN DOOR
HET PERSONEEL

As well as ceramic pottery, Blue Delft make a lot of architectural statues and structures

Iconic flower vases

Quiet break!

Our last night

Thanking our Chefs!!

Finishing the evening and the break - at JoJo's!!